The Colonial Theatre on Sunday evening was packed with a representative audience, for the mass meeting for the purpose of getting action on resolution pertaining to the Self Determination of Ireland, or the rights of Ireland to present her plea for the right to govern herself, to the Peace Conference at Paris. The resolutions which were presented at the conclusion of the meeting were adopted and will be forwarded to President Wilson.

Governor John H. Bartlett was one of the speakers and Mayor Albert H. Sloan was present and opened the meeting, introducing Rev. D. Alex. Sullivan, P. R., as the chairman of the evening, and when the meeting opened every seat was taken in the hall both upstairs and down and there was a large number standing. It was a representative gathering, of the people of this city, and they were very much interested in the presentation of the case, which was very eloquently done by all of the speakers.

Further Sullivan in taking the chair stated the object of the meeting, and what it was hoped to accomplish by

ANNUAL PORTLAND AUTO SHOW

Portland, Me., Feb. 17.—Portland anticipates a record throng within its limits during the week of March 3rd to the 8th, for during that period the annual show of the Portland Automobile Dealers Association will be held in the mammoth Exposition Building. At the present time the extensive arrangements for the big event are progressing rapidly and indications point to one of the best affairs of its kind ever held here.

In view of the prospects for a banner season of motoring during 1919, no expense will be spared in singling out an Auto Show of which the city and state may well be proud. It will be Maine's greatest and one of New England's finest. Devoting the main floor of the big structure to displays of pleasure cars and accessories, the basement of the building will be given over to exhibits of motor trucks in all their various styles and sizes.

Heavy demands have been made for display space in the hall, and the numerous exhibits will be set off amid one of the most gorgeous decorative schemes ever attempted for an event of this kind. The show is being staged under the management of J. H. Chandler, and to his credit the success of the past four Portland shows is due. He has secured special entertainment features to add to the attractiveness and appeal of the exhibition.

MANCHESTER SELECTED AS SUICIDE CITY

"We are going to Manchester to hire a room and commit suicide."

These words, hastily scribbled on a sheet of paper were found in a room at the state hospital for the insane at Concord, a few minutes after the disappearance of two of the inmates, Ella Gaskell and Molly Chase, early last evening.

The police of this city were promptly notified of the unusual case and a search of all hotels and rooming houses in Manchester was instituted.

About 3:30 o'clock Patrolman John J. Hogan learned that two women, answering the description of the escaped inmates of the hospital had taken a room at the Carlton Inn, investigating, he found both of them in a sickly condition. The younger of the two, Molly Chase was hardly able to speak. Inspector Mohr was immediately called.

Upon examination it was found that both women had taken doses of poison. A one pound box of the poison was found hidden in the bedding in the room.

The police ambulance was called and the victims taken to the county hospital at Gassano, where it was reported late last night that their condition was favorable for recovery.

One of the women, Ella Gaskell, is about 55 years of age, while the other is but 25 years old. Just how they effected their escape from the state hospital was still a mystery to the authorities there last night.

At the hotel they registered as "Mrs. and Miss Merrill of Concord."

TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

Look Young! Bring Back Its Natural Color, Gloss and Attractiveness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation. If your hair is fading, streaked or gray, mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready for use. This is the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While whips, gray, faded hair is not shifty, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared and, after another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.

BROOKLYN IS CRIME SWEEP

New York, Feb. 16.—Four holdups and two safe burglaries were added today to the growing list of crime which have kept the police of this city busy recently. Following the daylight robbery of United Shipping Board paymasters yesterday of $13,000 and the raid of two robberies on a Madison avenue jewelry store, today, a Brooklyn drug store and a saloon were held up by robbers during the early morning hours and several hundred dollars in cash taken.

Burglars, who apparently secreted themselves in the paper box factory of R. Tyson White's Sons before it was closed yesterday forced open the safe and made off with $1,000 in Liberty bonds, $250 in cash and some jewelry.

A Brooklyn resident reported that $750 in Liberty bonds and cash was taken from a small safe in his home.

SIR WILFRID LAURIER SLOWLY SINKING TODAY

(By Associated Press)

Ottawa, Ont., Feb. 17.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier, former premier of Canada, stricken with paralysis at his home yesterday is slowly sinking today. He added that home for his life was almost despaired of, as his steadily diminishing strength was slowly ebbing.

Sir Wilfrid was stricken while he was dressing for church yesterday morning. When he was heard to fall to the floor, members of the household ran to his assistance and then summoned a physician. It was two hours before he recovered consciousness.

Sir Wilfrid attended a luncheon of the Canadian club Saturday, worked at his office in the afternoon and was said by his friends to have shown no sign of fatigue in connection with duties as leader of the opposition. He has been extremely busy, however, of late, preparing for the session of parliament, which opens Thursday. He was also engaged in organizing the Ontario (Liberal) conventions.

His latest appearance as a public speaker was at the eastern Ontario convention here last month he delivered the chief address. Sir Wilfrid is nearly 75 years old.

NEWMARKET

Newmarket, Feb. 17.—That the people of Newmarket, New Hampshire appreciate the services of the men in service and do not intend to have these services forgotten was shown conclusively at a Victory Bazaar which was held this week for the purpose of obtaining funds to erect a permanent memorial to the boys from the town who have served in the World War.

The bazaar was the largest event ever held in southern New Hampshire and was given in one of the large halls of the Newmarket Manufacturing Company. The bazaar was attended by some 7000 people from all the surrounding towns and the sum of $2000 was raised for the memorial.

On the closing night, Governor Bartlett was present, being escorted from the depot by one hundred Newmarket boys in the service, in charge of Lt. John Durgin and Corp. Eugene House, and was escorted to the hall and received by the following reception committee: Hon. George H. Willey, Mr. Walter M. Gallant, Agent of the Newmarket Manufacturing Company, Mr. F. H. Durgin, Selectman M. P. Kennedy, Mr. Bela Kingston, Mr. A. J. Sands and Mr. P. H. Burrows.

The bazaar was the largest and most successful event ever held in Newmarket. Much credit is due the committee in charge which was composed of the following citizens: M. P. Kennedy, Bela Kingston, Walter H. Greene, George H. Willey, Adelard Rousseau, Philip Zacharowich, Jr., Mr. Percy H. Burrows, John B. Hovey, Albert P. Priest, Walter M. Gallant, Albert J. Sands, J. W. Connelley, William J. O'Connor, Dr. Geo. H. Towle, Jr., A. K. Phordillo, Henry C. George, Richard Starling, Fred Hissin, Carl E. Brackett and Wilfred D. Parkinson.

Much credit is due Mr. H. L. White, the professional decorator who furnished over a thousand pieces of hanging and who personally supervised the decorations.

The Town of Newmarket had more voluntary enlistments according to population than any other town in the state having some over two hundred boys in the service and is also one of the first towns in the state to show their appreciation of the service of the boys by erecting a permanent memorial.

FOCH REFUSES EXTENSION OF TIME TO HUNS

(By Associated Press)
Copenhagen, Feb. 15.—Replying to the request of the German Armistice commission for a delay until Monday noon on the signing of the renewal of the truce, Marshal Foch informed them that the armistice was up on five o'clock Monday morning and that unless it was signed by six o'clock Sunday evening, he would be obliged to leave Meuse and the armistice would cease.

Replying to H. Kexberger, the German chairman of the Armistice commission, Marshal Foch said that the new armistice had been arranged by the allied powers and that he had no authority to extend the time or change conditions and that unless signed he would have to give orders to the troops. A Wiener dispatch under date of Saturday said that the German government had requested an extension of the time for the reply to the armistice, pointing out that they had arrived so late that there was not time to consider them and get the answer back on the time set by the Commission.

A dispatch from Basle Saturday night reported that the armistice had been extended for an indefinite time and that Germany had agreed to cease its warfare on Poland and to carry out all of the provisions of the first armistice.

SENATE AFTER UNFAIR ARMY OFFICERS

Washington, Feb. 16.—Senators are determined to have the names of the officers in the United States Army who have served on courts-martial which sentenced American boys to 20, 30 and 40 years' imprisonment for trifling offenses. Senators are blazing in fury over the disclosures made by Acting Judge Advocate General Ansel before the Committee on Military Affairs, and forced the Rivers and Harbors Bill off the boards while they gave vent to their feelings today. Senator Fletcher of Florida, in charge of the bill, objected sharply to the reading of an account of the hearing published in the Washington Post, leading Senator Moses of New Hampshire to flash out. "Of course it is more important to improve Florida harbors than it is to get an American out of prison."

Senator Pomerenoy of Ohio shouted that he hoped the officers who imposed these sentences would be dismissed from the army. After Senator Norris of Nebraska had caused members of the committee to admit that the published story was substantially correct, the whole article was read, affirming this. Knox of Pennsylvania said that not only was the published account "not exaggerated" but that it did not cite the worst of the cases.

The debate was opened by a demand of Senator Borah of Idaho that the names of the sentencing officers should be ascertained by the committee. Lying back of the whole proposition, Senator Borah said, is not a fault in the law, but the man who would impose such sentences. "I have direct information," he said, "an authority in the War Department, that in one case a boy was ordered to peep potatoes. He declined and was sentenced to twenty years' imprisonment. The man who assessed that punishment is a dangerous member of society. He would commit murder if it placed him in a position to do so. The United States is an abject failure as in Panama."

Senator Chamberlain, chairman of the committee, promised that the Committee on Military Affairs would obtain the names of the offending officers. This action doubtless implies a investigation of all courts martial held here and in France.

THINKS PORTSMOUTH CAN SPARE MANSION

The New York Herald has the following regarding the purchase of the Wentworth mansion:

In regard to their acquisition of the Wentworth Gardner House at Portsmouth, N. H., the authorities of the Metropolitan Museum of Art call attention to the fact that although the are opposed to the demolition of landmarks of any description, their action in the present case is more than amply justified. For had the Museum not stepped in, the building would have passed into private hands, and would have suffered in the proposed process of modernization for living purposes. This stately dwelling, which stands out conspicuously even in Portsmouth, a city notable for such structures being long to a period of taste and elegance, was for years one of Walter Nutting's chain of Colonial houses, which served the purpose of local museums in a way, being open to visitors interested in the period. When the rooms and halls, with their carvings and other fittings, are finally installed in the Museum, it will be possible for students to step into interior which will be in fact as they were a first put together.

Apart from the City Hall and a few other public buildings, there are no many important eighteenth or early nineteenth century architectural work in New York city or its vicinity. One of the few with any real distinction is the Old House at Cos Cob, Conn., which has appealed strongly to many artists. Among those who painted it or made use of it for etchings and drawings were John Twachtman, Childs Hassam and Ernest Lawson. The porch, steps and many parts of the interior are familiar to many who do not know where it stands.

But Portsmouth is so rich in link with the Colonial and Revolutionary period that, while the Wentworth House will be missed, it will not be missed too much. The remaining family places are so numerous as to suggest that the previous inhabitants, who sleep in the huge graveyard by which one drives for a mile, must have had a very keen sense of fitness as well as comfort in their immediate surroundings.

The Wentworth House, like a more modest mansion in another part of Portsmouth, was built by a proud father for one of his sons, Mark Huntington Wentworth, a substantial merchant, known all through New England, who died in 1783, set up the home on the waterfront and gave it to his younger offspring, Thomas in 1761, at the time when the youth had just received his M. A. degree from Harvard college. This in the building which was passed into the control of the museum. Six years later Mr. Wentworth built another house away from the waterfront for his older son, John, in order to receive him on his return from London as Royal Governor of the province of New Hampshire.

It is not known if there was any family discussion over the fact that Thomas had the better share, although it is possible that John's high political rank enabled him to hold his head higher than his brother. In spite of the more magnificent installation of the latter.

Thomas lived only until 1768. His son then passed into the hands of Colonel Gardner, a local magnate, who took a conspicuous part in the Revolution. After that it had many owners till it finally became the property of Dr. Nutting, who restored it with skill and knowledge.

While the house is rectangular there is nothing severe about it. A hallway runs through each of the two main rooms, from which open the four doors to the rooms. The north entrance is handsome, but the great skill of the artist is shown in the interior. The parlor and archway of the entrance hall, the paneled nook of the stair and the balcony are excellent, while the upper hall has quite a different character from the lower.

One reason why the decorations and snellings are important is because the whole scheme was carried out with the simplicity for which New England Colonial building was noted. It is believed that the carvings were done by craftsmen who were either marine artists or were familiar with the work of the marine carvers.

The experts seem to have no doubt that the whole building inside and outside was the result of local skill, and it is typical not only of the time but the place.

Gratifying Progress.

The work of the Peace Conference is progressing satisfactorily and it is now possible to comprehend what is being done for the future safety and security of the world.

The public was already familiar with many of the aims of the proposed League of Nations, and now has them as they were read by President Wilson to the plenary session of the Conference a few days ago. The constitution includes a reduction of armament, an international court of arbitration, provides for the policing of the world to protect the League's covenants, and commercial and financial boycotts against any power that disregards its agreements. There will be freedom of the seas, and in the future all international treaties must be registered with the League in order that no member shall be left in the dark, and all treaties inconsistent with this program will be abrogated as soon as the League comes into official existence. War or threats of war in any part of the world will receive the attention of the League, which is founded for the prevention of wars and to secure and maintain the rights of nations without recourse to arms. The plan includes an international court of justice the details of which are yet to be worked out. The expenses will be divided among the members of the League and provision is made for the admission of nations which do not take part in its formation.

This is a brief outline of the aims and objects of the League of Nations which comes as an outgrowth of the great world war. Far-seeing men recognized during the tremendous struggle that something must be done to protect the world against the recurrence of such an upheaval, and that such favorable progress is being made toward that end is cause for gratification. The work has progressed thus far with so little friction that there is ground for the expectation of an entirely satisfactory outcome, and this means that in one vastly important respect this old world is to be a different world from this time on.

Of President Wilson's leading part in this great work it is hardly necessary to speak. From the very first he has been at the forefront and the whole world has acknowledged his leadership and placed therein its most implicit faith. Harmony nothing short of surprising in view of the magnitude of the undertaking has marked the work of the Conference, a fact which proves the seriousness and sincerity of all the Powers that are taking part.

It is impossible to correctly estimate the benefits that will accrue from this great world-forward movement, but it is easy to understand that under such an arrangement as is being entered into by the leading nations will mean a reduction of the dangers of war to the minimum, and that from this time forth the world shall be ruled by reason and not by force, save only that of international public opinion and the demand that civilization shall be a reality and not an empty boast.

Secretary Glass is of the opinion that something must be done to make the next issue of Liberty bonds "more attractive." It is generally felt that "capital" will have to take the bulk of the bonds, and if the interest rate were to be materially raised there might be some chafing on the part of the "little fellows" who dipped so liberally into previous issues under the impression that they were performing a patriotic act.

There is a bill before the Massachusetts Legislature providing for short-term licenses under which liquor dealers could do business from the first of May until national prohibition goes into effect July 1. Massachusetts was one of the first states to ratify the amendment, and now if it passes such a law as this it will show how anxious it is to have the sale of intoxicants stopped.

Now it is claimed that unification of operations of the government-controlled railroads of the East resulted in a saving of more than $23,000,000 in 1918. That is good news. If it hadn't been for this "saving" the deficit for the year would have been over $270,000,000 instead of only $250,000,000.

It is claimed that a stove has been invented that will burn sawdust advantageously, but there is not much hope for relief in that direction. There is not enough sawdust to amount to much in the way of fuel, no matter how practical the stove may be.

It is expected that many ministers will be home from the front by spring. As most of them went on leaves of absence they will find their old places awaiting them. But what will become of the substitutes?

Mayflowers and straw hats have appeared in Maine. It is evident that the booze runners are sliding some "hot stuff" into the Pine Tree State.

The coal operators meet mild weather and a dull market by curtailing operations. Any reduction in price is, of course, out of the question.

FAVOR IRISH SELF DETERMINATION

considered as a small nation and be given the same consideration as the other small nations, Belgium, Serbia, Greece, etc.

Hon. A. O. Hoban of Gardner, Mass., a well known attorney delivered a very fine address on the subject. He went into the early history of Ireland and of the rights of that country to be at last considered, after the fight for nearly hundred years. He told of what Ireland's people had contributed to the cause of the world, in science, in literature, law and in fact in every branch of learning and of the Irish love of their country and especially of their home, the corner stone of civilization. Their love of their country, despite of the fact that they have been driven from it by the unjust laws, not so much at present as in the past. Their hope was that Ireland would one day again take her place among the nations of the world, with her own form of government. He claimed that Great Britain had no right to accept the President's fourteen points, until she should have first cleared her own case by giving Ireland her freedom. If other small nations of the world by this great international tribunal, be given the right to determine how they shall live and be governed, then Ireland entitled to that same right as a matter of equity. Mr. Hoban is a very good speaker and he presented his facts in a convincing manner summing up his case as in a court of law.

The last speaker of the evening was Rev. John J. Lyons, Rector of the St. Ann's church in Manchester. He is a very able speaker and his opening words of the part that America had played in this great war, and as he said, the war, were very eloquent. He said that he would not be satisfied with the American remaining as the watch dog on the Rhine, but would like to see them march into Berlin and there they would make the final peace, and at the same time impress upon the German people that they were defeated. He recalled how the Germans in 1871 had not been satisfied until, after they had beaten France, that they had moved their troops into the very heart of Paris. He recalled that out of the 2,000,000 men that had gone from this country to fight this great battle for the liberty of the world, that 600,000 were either Irish or Irish-American, while from Ireland in the English and other allied armies were more than that number.

Mr. Lyons' address was as follows: "We are gathered here tonight Irish and Irish-Americans, to unite with twenty million of our brethren throughout the United States in calling upon the President to present before the high court of the world the claims of Ireland to self-determination. We Americans entered into this war when England had her back against the wall, when the Italian army was driven back upon Venice when France was exhausted and weary, and the German army thundered at the very gates of Paris. Transport after transport moved across the sea, a miracle of achievement, until two million of the flower of our youth, American, Canadian, Scotch of arm and heart and resolute of purpose, found themselves upon the soil of France, or upon our enemies on European waters, ready to give battle in the sacred cause of freedom, and of these two million of heroes one half a million were Irishmen or sons of Irishmen.

"These presence and their prowess changed the face of events, saved the Allies, saved civilization, rescued humanity from the iron heel of Prussian despotism. At Chateau-Thierry, at St. Mihiel, on the Marne, in the forests of Ardennes and Argonne, at Chemin des Dames, on the Meuse, at Verdun, with prodigies of valor and bravery, they drove before them the very pick and flower of the German army, until finally after less than four months of unintermitted victories, at historic Sedan, where 50 years before France was beaten to her knees and despoiled of her fairest province and the Prussian Kingdom became the German empire, there on that last bloody battlefield, our American boys gave the final blow to a demoralized enemy, which, disheartened, beaten and broken laid down their arms and sued for peace.

"And our boys, so marching on, they are at Strasbourg, Coblenz, Mayence, Cologne—they have crossed the Rhine, and they pray God, they may be marching on, until as half a century ago, the victorious German army marched under the arch of peace and through the streets of Paris, so our victorious army, the stars and stripes over their heads, and their colors flying, 'The Star Spangled Banner,' 'Yankee Doodle' and 'The Wearing of the Green,' will soon march through the Linden Streets of a conquered Berlin, so that all the world may know that America has forever ended the reign of autocracy and despotism and has made the world safe for democracy.

"It is a fact almost universally accepted that America entered into the world war impelled by far different motives than those of other nations. We demand no territorial expansion, we sought no material gains, we were in no need of the ultimate prize which might accrue from defeat of the Allies.

"Why then did we go to war? Our President has fully and completely answered that question. It was to realize certain ideals that are indispensable to any real progress in human affairs. It was to establish the principle of justice and equity between nations—to replace government by the sword with government by the consent of the governed, the true basis of democracy—it was to establish courts of arbitration, through which national differences might be settled without recourse to force—to reestablish boundaries—to make the seas free to the commerce of the world—to bind the nations together in a league of unity and mutual independence—above all—to secure the rights of the weaker nations and to give them the right of self-determination, so that each might pursue liberty and happiness free from the shadow of oppression and secure in the possession of just laws and benign guidance. These were the lofty ideals, these the altruistic aims for which America went to war.

"My friends, one of the salient issues which is to occupy the attention of the forthcoming peace tribunal is the question of self-determination for the smaller nations—the right of a conquered people to govern themselves, and our purpose here tonight is to emphasize the claim of one of the most ancient of all nations to manage its own affairs in her own way.

"Ireland, which has enjoyed a civilization and culture before most of the European peoples, had emerged from barbarism, Ireland, which for centuries, back to the days of St. Patrick, has been a sanctuary of religion and learning, Ireland, which has been a nation unified in laws and language, a history, in tradition, in geographical position, surrounded as she is by four seas which give her the same splendid position which has always been England's boast, and most of all united in her love of liberty—(I) that make a people one, demands at this crisis of the world's history that she, too, shall have her place in the sun, that she, too, shall share in the privileges about to be given to peoples of yesterday—to the Czechs, Slovaks, the Jugoslavs, the Balkan states, Montenegro, Serbia, Albania, Rumania and the rest.

"For seven hundred years, since Henry the Second sent his armies into Ireland to destroy her people, and in English banners to confiscate her lands, she has been subjected to a domination by an alien race, more brutal and more unyielding than the basest wild beasts of world. Her conquest ever deemed of, but through good and evil report, through war and famine and exile, through every effort made to destroy her national life, Ireland has never ceased to uphold her right to national independence, based to her ancient freedom and to repudiate an alien enemy who has held her in thrall and who has never quenched her love for home and altar.

"And today her sons in every part of the world, in the United States, in Canada, in Australia, in New Zealand, in South Africa, in every land where Irishmen are found (and in what land are they not found?) are banded together in grim determination that in the new alignment of the map of the world, the demand of Ireland for justice, liberty and self-government must be granted. A league of nations with Ireland ignored is predestined to disaster and failure. A body politic that contains a festering sore has within itself the seeds of corruption, decay and death. A people apple rotten at the core, but tonight we are filled with hope and expectation of better things.

"We confidently reply upon the deep faith and high minded purposes of our great President and we believe that he will not fail to listen to the swelling volume of voices from every land calling upon him to right the wrongs of centuries and obtain for a long-suffering people the blessings of liberty and peace."

"The Nations have fallen, but thou art still young.
 Thy sun is but rising, when others are set.
 And the Saviors' cloud o'er thy morning hath hung,
 The full moon of Freedom shall beam round thee yet.
 Erin, O Erin! though long in the shade,
 Thy star shall shine out when the proudest shall fade."

Following the meeting the resolution which simply asked that Ireland be given a right to appear before the Peace Conference and present her case were adopted.

Whereas, The Allied Powers associated with the United States have subscribed to the fourteen principles enunciated by President Wilson as a basis for a just peace, one of which principles is that the people of all nations, forming a separate and distinct race in a particular country have the right of self-determination in the creation of the administering power of government within their borders to the end that the power of government may conform to their ideas of justice and freedom, thereby preventing their subjection by governments, or peoples foreign to their race and ideals, and Whereas, The Allied Powers associated with the United States have given assurance to many of the smaller nations that they will guarantee that such right of self-determination will be provided for in the final treaties, or accords, which shall be presented by the peace commission to the various Powers for signature and ratification by said Powers; and Whereas, this meeting believes that the right of self-determination of peoples, ought to and does apply to all nations no matter under whose rule such people are subject, and believing further that the people of Ireland come within the classification of such nations, and believing further that consistent with justice and humanity the Irish people are entitled to the same rights as other subject-nations; Therefore, Be it Resolved by this meeting, that the representatives of the people of the United States at the Peace Conference be requested to present to said conference the claims of the Irish people to the right of self-government, and that they further be requested to exercise their influence to bring about a just consideration of the Peace Conference of the rights of the Irish people to govern themselves, and that said representatives of the United States at the Peace Conference further exercise their influence so that the Irish people may receive such measure of self-determination as is consistent with justice and humanity towards the Irish people.

Be it Further Resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to the President of the United States and to the representatives of the United States at the Peace Conference.

The Columbia Theatre orchestra rendered several selections during the evening.

The department announced a tentative schedule of sailing dates for transports, battleships, and cruisers to be used in bringing home the army. It includes 49 commercial ships, 14 battleships and 19 cruisers. The schedule of sailings from this side has been worked up tentatively for all of the present month.

FIRM NAME OF NEAL AND PRAY MAKING A HIT

Name Suggests Good Advice From the Clergy Especially.

The firm name of the new laundry "Neal and Pray" is making something of a hit when the auto delivery truck bearing the same appears on the street. It never fails to escape the eye of the clergyman and the driver says he has had much good advice so far concerning the name. One clergyman advised them to stand by the name religiously and of business would be good, while another said "If Neal will pray as hard as Pray has worked in the past the fortune of the new firm is established." One woman bowed that no firm with that name would be found doing any Sunday work outside of what the name called for, kneeling and praying.

GAVE A LUNCHEON.

The Nashua Equal Suffrage League entertained with a luncheon at the Century Club in Nashua on Saturday. Mrs. Mary L. Wood and Miss Martha S. Kimball of this city were the speakers.

GERMANY ASKED FOR BIG LOAN

(By Associated Press)

Wellman, Saturday, Feb. 15.—The German people generally do not yet understand clearly the financial situation in which the war has left them and they are too optimistic, according to Dr. Schiller, Minister of Finance, who addressed the National Assembly today. He apparently astonished the house when he gave the statistics showing that the war had cost 161,000,000,000 marks. He asked that the Assembly vote a credit in the form of a loan for 55,000,000,000 marks the greatest loan the German people have ever been asked to raise.

POLICE COURT

Joseph Bonk must be satisfied that his predecessor, Edward Phokys, the manager of "The Last Chance," a Market street restaurant, is bunk.

Joe recently procured Eddie's business at the North End, which included the older dispensary. Joe continued to push the apple jack over the bar and got pinched. He told the court today that he went on the former manager's advice, who told him that he could get away with the sale of cider.

On Sunday Joe had a full house and while 15 or more guests were talking the Polish situation over at the round tables, the cops backed up with the jitney. Today it cost Joe $15.50.

Joe evident got a bad start, like the former proprietor, who has paid out so much money in the police court that he finally threw up the sponge and went back to Manchester. He took Patrolmen Kelley and Ellingwood to escort Horridas Hoste to the battle on Saturday evening from Market street where they found him drunk and fussy. He was released on payment of $11.74.

REV. MR. STANLEY GIVES ADDRESS AT Y. M. C. A.

At the Y. M. C. A. on Sunday afternoon Rev. William P. Stanley gave the address at the meeting for enlisted men. He told of the spirit of our boys in the war and in life and brought out lessons from his subject. The address was preceded by a hearty song service. The meeting was attended by a hundred or more and as its close the Fellowship Lunch of assorted sandwiches, cake, coffee and milk was served by Mrs. Matthews' club of the North Church Sunday school.

Mrs. Lora Ann Simpson.

Mrs. Lora A. Simpson, wife of Hon. John F. Simpson, died at her home in North Hampton on Sunday age 68 yrs. She leaves besides her husband, four sons, William F. of Hampton, Charles W. of Peabody, Albert F. of Montrose, Mass., and John E. of Melrose, five daughters, Mrs. George P. The funeral will be held from the Congregational church at North Hampton on Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock. Relatives and friends invited.

WHY NOT DOCK HERE?

Why should the President pick out Boston as a landing place? Why doesn't he treat himself kindly and dock the George Washington at Portsmouth? Does he want state and ceremony? That town is as well equipped with two-gallon hats as any other in New England, and has just as many governors as Boston can produce. The Union.

One thing certain the George Washington would not have any difficulty in getting in our harbor. He would find Portsmouth alive and brim full of patriotism and proud of his great efforts. Here he would be surrounded by true sentiment and thoroughly in sympathy with the Peace Conference. Portsmouth would be delighted to receive him.

HEARING TO DISCONTINUE NO. HAMPTON ROAD

The city Council chamber was jammed this forenoon with residents of Rye and North Hampton, who came to be heard in opposition to the taking up of the rails of the North Hampton electric line. The occasion was a public hearing by the Public Service Commission with W. T. Gunnison, T. D. Worthington and John W. Storrs sitting as commissioners.

The hearing started at about 11 o'clock. Attorney Tinsdale of the Boston & Maine representing the road, and he presented the reasons for the petition to discontinue. Supdt. W. E. Dowdell presented the evidence to show that operating the road was a losing proposition and that it cost the road over $400 per month to collect $100 on that part of the line. Mr. Dowdell took up a greater part of the forenoon presenting figures and data as to the receipts and expenditures of the road. He said it would require $2500 to repair the line this spring and the junk value was about $2000.

Selemban Everett Marston followed. Mr. Dowdell and testified as to the needs of the road. He claimed the line was a feeder for the main line and that the public good called for its continuance.

HELD BAZAAR FOR WORTHY CAUSE

A bazaar was held on Saturday at the North church chapel by the Senior Orphan Relief Club, which consists of 25 or more pupils of the Lafayette and Whipple schools. The affair, which was most successful, was given for the purpose of supporting a French or Belgian child for two years. Over $75 was made by the sale, and it is hoped additional contributions will be received to complete the amount necessary for the work planned out.

The sale was from 3 to 8 p. m. and during that time home made cake, candy, ice cream and punch was on sale, also fancy and household articles. The tables were well patronized and the members of the club deserve much credit for what they have accomplished.

During the afternoon violin solos were given by Miss Sue Soutle and piano selections by Miss Georganna Dancant, also violin and piano duets by these young misses.

Miss Marjorie Fowler was in general charge of the sale, assisted by an able committee.

THRONGS PAY LAST MARK OF RESPECT TO RYE BOY

The last sad rites over the remains of Corporal Philip Willard Tucker of Rye, who died of pneumonia on Feb. 2, at Camp Elkins, Virginia, were held at the Congregational Church at Rye on Sunday afternoon at 2.15 o'clock. It was one of the largest funerals ever held in Rye and the church was completely filled, as throngs of the townspeople gathered to pay the last mark of respect to one of Rye's sterling young men who had given his life in his country's cause.

The remains of the young soldier arrived in this city on Saturday from Camp Elkins, accompanied by Corporal Robert Bowles of Alston, Mass., who had been a close friend of the deceased ever since they both entered the service and were sent to Dartmouth College for training last August.

Prayers were said at the home previous to the service in the church. The Rye Grange and the Junior Order of American Mechanics attended the service in a body, the young man having the office of councillor in the latter order at the time of his death, and being a member also of Rye Grange. A military escort from Fort Constitution, New Castle, in command of an officer from the fort, accompanied the remains to the church.

The casket was draped with an American flag and the young man was buried in his uniform. The floral tributes were many and completely blanketed the altar, among them being many of prices.

Rev. James W. Flagg, the pastor, in his eulogy spoke in the highest terms of the young man and of the great cause in which he sacrificed his life. He was one of Rye's sterling young men and it was said of him that he had not an enemy in the world, for he made and kept friends by his kindly disposition and his fine qualities of heart and mind.

Mrs. Mury Whitteer Priest touchingly rendered "Face to Face" and "Sometime We'll Understand."

Interment was in Central cemetery. Rye, the funeral cortege having military escort to the cemetery. The bearers were Irving Rand, William Drew, William Philbrick, and Noel Campbell, members of the Junior Order of American Mechanics, and this order conducted services at the grave. The firing squad from Fort Constitution, which acted as escort, fired a volley after taps were sounded at the grave. J. Verne Wood had charge of the funeral arrangements.

Corporal Tucker entered the service Aug. 15, 1918, and was sent to Dartmouth College for a three months' course of special training. In November he was sent to Fortress Monroe and later to Camp Elkins, where he remained until his death. His age was 21 years. He was assigned to the motor transport unit and was expecting overseas duty when the armistice was signed. While in the hospital during his last illness the young soldier received the rating of corporal, although he was too ill to be told of the fact.

Corporal Tucker was employed at the plant of the Morley Button Company for eight years and had been advanced to the position of assistant foreman in the carpenters' department. He was a young man of excellent character and the news of his death cast a gloom over the entire townspeople of Rye. He has answered the last call and died in the service of his country, honored by all who knew him and his memory will ever be revered.

"There is no death! An angel from Walkers over the earth in silent tread. He hears our heart-loved ones away. And then we call them dead."

"When they lie down a small, cool light, or hear two pure for faint and view. He bears it to that world of light. To dwell in Paradise."

"And ever near us, though unseen. The dear immortal spirits tread. For all the boundless universe in life—there are no dead."

SINGLE TAX IN OPEN FORUM

The Open Forum held by the Musical Trades Council Sunday afternoon in Music Hall was well attended and was entertained by the promised orchestra composed of members of the Musical Union.

Chairman Henry spoke of the educational purpose of the Open Forum and of the fact that the expenses involved were being borne by the labor unions of the city. He then announced the subject to be discussed: "The Relation of Capital and Labor to Single Tax," and introduced the speaker, Edmund J. Burke of Boston. Mr. Burke is a manufacturer and was the first to grant the forty-four hour week to his employees, with sick benefit and fifteen days vacation with pay.

The speaker began by saying that people should not be satisfied with conditions as they are, but there should be no antagonism between capital and labor. Capital does not employ labor; labor employs capital for a useful end. The real enemy, the common enemy of capital and labor, is monopoly and special privileges, the granting of which robs both capital and labor of their just compensation. According to evidence submitted to an investigating committee, unless restrictive measures are adopted and enforced, the Beer Trust, in five years, will control the food products of the country. Uncontrolled private ownership would deprive labor of its God-given right to work—would make slaves of those who toil. Invention has increased the production of comfort and luxury, but the condition of mankind is no better than it was a century ago. Private rentals, collected by individuals, cause social welfare laws to go for naught. The increasing annual value—the unearned increment—is due to density of population and should be known as people value. Now, what is the remedy for existing ills? One friend of the socialist declares for government ownership, but the Single Taxer points out that concentration and competition have forced wages down, while the cost of living has mounted to the skies. The purchasing power of the dollar has decreased and the net wages of the toiler have been reduced.

Free access to the natural resources keeps incomes where they should be. Along the shores of the sea, while vast wealth does not accumulate, abject poverty is unknown, because the fishery have free access to the storage vaults of the sea. As long as natural resources can be bought and controlled by private capital misdeeds and wretchedness must result. Present industrial and economic laws are not corrective, merely palliatives. Fundamental remedies must be applied. Put taxes on the land and the land values is the remedy presented by the single tax theory.

SHATTUCK SHIP YARD NOTES

FIRST WOODEN SEA-GOING OIL

TANKER BEING BUILT HERE

Shattuck Yard Engaged in Constructing Composite Wood and Asphalt Barge, Which, if Successful, May Revolutionize the Whole System of Oil Tanker Construction.

Hull No. 385, which is to be an oil barge, will be the first wooden sea-going oil barge of its kind in existence. Progress on the hull has been rapid. It was first intended for a Ferris type steamer, but shortly after it was framed, orders from the Shipping Board required that it be converted into a barge. New plans necessarily had to be drawn up, causing inevitable delay. Withal, however, progress on the hull has been remarkably rapid. The feature of this barge is the fact that there is to be no steel tank for oil, but that it is to be filled with asphalt, which will answer the same purpose as a steel tank. The frame spaces from frame 22 to frame 71 are to be filled with asphalt which will amount to 277 tons in weight.

The asphalt arrives at the plant in tank cars. These cars are drawn along a spur track recently constructed opposite Way No. 4, where hull No. 385 is located. Here has been built a special building lined with steam pipes. The tank cars are drawn into the building and there exposed to the heat. The car is left here until the asphalt is sufficiently heated and has reached a sufficient thickness for pouring.

When the asphalt is thin enough for pouring it is drawn off into tubs of 1½ tons capacity. These tubs are carried along the embankway to the hull. A small fan-like appliance on the tub allows regulation of the flow of asphalt into the frame spaces.

The frame spaces must undergo special treatment before the asphalt may be poured into them. First of all they must be thoroughly dry. This is accomplished by a special blower. Then the spaces must be heated. This is accomplished by filling the space with hot air just previous to the application of the asphalt. Both the heater and the blower are run by an electric motor.

The name of the barge will very likely be "Wasagora," inasmuch as this name was destined for the last hull launched until it was decided to allow the city of Newton to choose a name. However, another change is not unlikely. The launching will not come before March. Very likely it will occur during the latter part of that month.

THE AMERICAN MERCHANT FLAG

It should be a source of satisfaction to us all that our country has made herself almost at a bound the foremost shipbuilding nation of the world. Five years ago the prophet who ventured to predict anything of the kind would have been handed over to an alienist for consideration. The American merchant flag was a stranger to international waterways, and the tradition that American shipping had ever dotted the seas was coming more and more to be received as a myth. American lacked yards, lacked designs, lacked tools, lacked men trained for the work. Saddest of all, she appeared to lack vision. Then came the war with its imperious demand upon American power of initiative and effort—and let a miracle unfold before us. The man who has had a part—however humble—in giving our country supremacy on the ocean, that man will know in honor as the people grow in realization and appreciation. The faithful workers in the shipyards are working patriotically for peace as well as for war. They may stand up proudly among men.

NEW TREATMENTS FOR NEW AILMENTS.

Failure to Hear Quitting Whistle.—Lay patient down to cool place, preferably in cashier's office. Loosen clothing about the neck. Make a poultice of new 20 dollar bills and apply to the soles of the feet. Pour Florida Water over face and send for his folks. If patient regains consciousness be sure and do not tell him what has happened. Tell him a ship fell on him, or anything except the truth, as he would be very apt to swoon and never come out of it.

Refusing Back Pay.—Place sufferer over a barrel. A quarter or an eighth answers just as well for persons of small stature. Place foot in region of the hip pocket and press down forcibly to help vibration of the maxilla muscles which are in direct contact with the heart. Wipe patient in blankets soaked thoroughly with "Tanglefoot" and take him for a ride in a new Ford. The bouncing and bounding, together with the rattles of the machine, will cause him to regain consciousness.

IF BACKACHEY OR KIDNEYS BOTHER

Eat less meat also take glass of Salts before eating
breakfast.

Fish held in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush out the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from headache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Eat less meat, drink lots of water, also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jax Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jax Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent fruit-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jax Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

CANDIA CLUB TO MEET

The annual meeting of the Candia Club will be held at the New American House, Boston, on Thursday, Feb. 27. The club holds a reception, followed by a business meeting and banquet.

The special guest of the club will be Major Carroll J. Swan, author of "My Company." He will give a talk regarding his thrilling experiences. Dr. George A. Sledge, reader and impersonator, will give recitations. Marching orchestra of Boston will furnish music.

The Candia Club was organized over 15 years ago by Kim Walter, 1882, the life popular poet, whose birthplace was Candia but whose boyhood home was in this city. Mr. Walter was the first president of the club.

The Herald puzzle department for Saturday will contain a solid column of the most interesting problems.

You've got a living-room in your house, altho' you may not call it that, and here's a picture of a davenport that would absolutely make the appearance of that room, besides give every comfort to the inhabitants.

Is there a rocker, too? There certainly is! And a side chair. It is a three-piece suite, and one of the prettiest that we have shown.

You know where the store is, you couldn't go along Vaughan Street and not find the place, for it stands out like the North Star. So why don't you come in? If you don't want a living-room suite, there are thousands of other things to be seen, and you will doubtless find something you do want.

But if you are not looking for anything—now get this, for we were never more sincere—then you are just as welcome as if you were buying for the whole house. Are you coming? Come in and see our furnished suite, "The House Beautiful."

Chief of Police Hurley still has his eye on the truck load of liquor which the police seized on the night of Jan. 22. From the present outlook, the booze is likely to go to the county Judge Young in the superior court at Exeter, allowed a reasonable time for anybody to appear who thought they had a rightful claim and present the same. No one appeared and the time is fast for any further action on the part of anyone who may own any of the shipment to take action. It is understood the federal authorities will go no further in the case in the way of making a claim for it as they have all the booze they care to watch over at present.

The court will likely, under the law have it appraised and sold and the receipts for the same turned over to the institutions of the county or state where it could be used for medicinal purposes. The value of the load has been over-estimated and it is said to amount to less than $1700.

A claim has been made for the truck by the New England Signal Motor Truck Company. The machine is under lease, the firm claims.

CAN THE WASHINGTON DOCK AT BOSTON?

Boston is now worrying how they are going to get the big transport George Washington into the harbor. She draws too much water and will be the largest ship ever sent there. Better take no chances and send her to Portsmouth. The Sunday papers claim she cannot dock there if she is fully loaded.
